LUCINDA GEOGHEGAN:

“Let the children play –
experiencing music skills through singing games”

A ONE-DAY COURSE FOR EARLY-YEARS MUSIC TEACHERS

Friday, 30th October, 2015

10.00 a.m. – 5.00 p.m.

The Jurgens Centre, Englefield Green, Egham, Surrey TW20 0QR

This course will be a “hands on” music course, with participants actively engaged in playing a variety of singing games. These games form a springboard for musical learning, helping children to experience musical skills including beat, rhythm, pitch, dynamics, tempo and the development of inner hearing. Other topics covered will include:

how to develop the child’s ability to sing in tune;

listening skills;

how music forms the basis of holistic learning.

Participants will be given a handout of all music covered in the session.

“Lucinda is inspirational - her enthusiasm is catching”

- participant on the 2014 NYCoS Summer School

Lucinda Geoghegan graduated in music from the University of Edinburgh in 1982, completed a postgraduate teaching qualification at Moray House College of Education, and trained with the Kodály Institute of Britain where she gained an Advanced Diploma in musicianship with Distinction.
